Mary Anderson is increasing her riches at the rate of $3,000 a week.

The chief social event at Madison, Indiana, at present, is a man 82 years old suing for a divorce.

They are making it "warm" for Speaker Keifer, or trying to, but a man who has the possession of the office and the power, is generally on top.

It was at first supposed there would be pistols and surgeons for two when the Blackburn-Burbridge war broke out, but the country will be disappointed. It is simply a war of words.

The Southern Bourbons are beginning to learn that if they won't let the negro vote they must get along without his work. All the negro wants, in any State of the South, is to be let alone.

There is some satisfaction in knowing that Fitz John Porter can not be restored to his former rank without an act of Congress. No somersaulting on the part of General Grant can make treason honorable.

Mr. Crouch, of Baltimore, who wrote that famous song "Kathleen Mavourneen," is a mechanic in that city, supporting a wife and five children on his wages—a dollar a day. On thirty different editions of that song, he never received a cent.

How the mighty has fallen! Dr. De La Matry, the Greenbacker, was once a power in the House of Representatives, but the other day he made a greenback speech to a Bloomington audience which is said to have been made up of 75 persons and a shaggy dog.

For the past twelve years, the Governors of Virginia, have been without wives, and the fact that Governor Cameron, who was married last week, is a married man, creates much good feeling in Richmond that a lady will preside at the Executive mansion.

General George B. McClellan gave a brilliant reception at his residence at Gramercy Park last Thursday night. Persons not forgetting McClellan's movements in the army will rightly conclude that he began to prepare for that reception a year ago. But it will surprise many to learn that he got around to it so early after beginning his plans.

A Sunday school superintendent in Boston, has greatly increased his popularity among his scholars, and has done much to widen his fame. It is Mr. George W. Chapman. One day last week in passing a candy store on a certain street in Boston, he learned that the entire stock was being sold by the sheriff. He stepped in and bought the stock, called the thousand children of the Tremont Temple Sunday school together, and distributed the candy among them.

The thirty-fifth annual session of the Wisconsin Legislature convened at 12 o'clock to-day. The chief officers of that body are as follows:

President pro tem of the Senate—G. B. Burrows.

Chief Clerk—C. E. Bross. Sergeant-at-arms—A. T. Glaze. Bookkeeper—O. G. Munson. Postmaster—C. M. Treat. Speaker of the Assembly—Frank L. Gilson.

Chief Clerk—E. D. Coe. Sergeant-at-arms—D. E. Welsh. The names of subordinate officers will be found in our telegraphic columns. The Governor's message, which proves to be a lengthy document, will be delivered in joint convention of both houses on Thursday.

The Guiteau trial is drawing to a close for which the country is thankful. Judge Cox concluded his decision on Tuesday at noon, having assumed an hour and forty minutes, with rapid speaking, going over every material point. His rulings were directly against the prayers of the defense. The only grain of comfort for the prisoner was offered when Judge Cox reached the question of reason doubt. Upon this point he said: "I shall not charge the jury to acquit if they find reasonable doubt as to any one element, but I shall take into consideration and charge them relative to the elements, and that if, from all the circumstances and evidence, they have reasonable doubt of the commission by defendant of the crime as charged, then they shall acquit." After a consultation between the counsel, the court adjourned till Thursday morning, when Mr. Davidge will make the opening argument for the prosecution to the jury. Unless the arguments are very brief, the case will hardly go to the jury before Saturday.

A rich man died in Philadelphia a number of years ago leaving a will in which he laid a strange and solemn injunction upon his children, that so long as they lived they should see the old year out and the new year in at the foot of his grave. Although he was eccentric, he was also kind and benevolent, and the children deeply appreciating these facts, pledged themselves to carry out their father's wish. In a few years they became scattered through many States, from Vermont to Nebraska, but they never violated their father's injunction, and a week ago last Saturday night, a few moments before midnight, they assembled, as usual, in the family vault in Laurel Hill cemetery. Four of the children who had met for years at the foot of the father's grave in the dead of night to bid good bye to the old year and to welcome the new, are in their graves. The survivors, three in number, on whom this grim necessity was laid, constituted the mournful group as they carried out their father's solemn request, on Saturday night a week ago. It will be a lonely night for the last surviving daughter when she walks unattended to Laurel Hill and there in the solemn stillness of the midnight hour, among the dead, with the father's coffin at her feet, to honor the memory of her father and to witness the changes of the years.

THE LEGISLATURE.

Special to the Gazette.

MADISON, Jan. 11.—The Wisconsin Legislature convened at noon to-day.

SENATE.

In the Senate George B. Burrows was chosen president pro tem; Charles E. Bross, of Dane county, chief clerk, and A. T. Glaze, of Waupaca, sergeant-at-arms.

In opening the session Lieutenant-Governor Fiefield made a brief speech and eloquently reviewing the happy condition of the State affairs and referring in touching terms to Garfield's assassination. After appointing a committee to wait upon the Governor the Senate adjourned until to-morrow.

The Assembly was called to order by Chief Clerk Eldred of last Assembly. Every member present, F. L. Gilson, of Pierce, was chosen speaker, E. D. Coe, of Walworth for Chief Clerk, and D. E. Welsh, of Sauk, Sergeant-at-arms. Speaker Gilson delivered a short speech of thanks. His election seems to satisfy all parties.

This afternoon the members are drawing seats. The new Assembly is about equal to the average in ability. A few of the leading men in the State, such as Keyes, Price, and Fred W. Horn, are on the list.

M. D. Vaughn, of Lewiston, Columbia county, came down to get the Republican Assembly nomination for Sergeant-at-arms, but failed. He was bitter and vituperative in consequence. Late at night he broke into the room of Ed. Sanderson, of Milwaukee, chairman of the Republican State Central Committee, and rifled his pockets to the extent of one hundred and fifty dollars. Sanderson followed him down stairs and had him arrested and placed in jail. Afterwards Vaughn was released because he begged hard, but now papers are out for his rearrest.

THE LEGISLATURE.

MADISON, January 10.—The organization of the two houses of the Legislature was determined by the Republican caucus this afternoon. In the Senate caucus, Burrows, of Dane, was elected President pro. tem. by thirteen votes, to three for Scott, and six for Richardson. C. E. Bross was re-elected chief clerk, and A. T. Glaze, sergeant-at-arms. The principal appointments are: Assistant clerk, Chauncey Cook; book-keeper, O. G. Munson; postmaster, C. M. Treat, Racine.

A committee, consisting of one Senator from each congressional district, was appointed to arrange the committees. This committee met to-night and decided on the following: Minority representation, arranged at a caucus of the Democratic Senators, held after the close of Republican caucus: Judiciary—Wing, Hamilton, Crosby, Finkelnburg, Randall, Hudd, and Delaney, State Affairs—Simpson, Flint, and Rankin. Railroads—VanSchaick, Burrows, Scott, Wiley, Erwin, Colman, Ryland, Rankin, and Hunt. Education—McKeeby, Richardson, and Delaney. Manufactures and Commerce—Bennett, VanSchaick, and Kusel. Incorporations—Ellis, Kingston, and Hunt. Town and County Organization—Hamilton, Meffert, and Adams. Public Lands—Crosby, Palmer, and Adams. Military Affairs—Colman, Ellis, and Kusel. Privileges and Elections—Randall, Phillips, and Chase. Finance, Banks, and Insurance—Finkelnburg, Simpson, and Ackley. Assessment and Collection of Taxes—Kingston, Hamilton, and Smith. Legislative Expenditure—Wiley, Wing, and Ackley. Federal Relations—Erwin, Burrows, and Hudd. Roads and Bridges—Phillips, Bennett, and Pingel. Agriculture—Hill, McKee, and Pingel.

Enrolled Bills—Palmer, Randall, and Adams. Engrossed Bills Meffert, Erwin, and Pingel. Claims—Ryland, Colman, and Smith. Clerks and Penal Institutions—Richardson, Hill, and Chase. Printing—Flint, Richardson, and Hudd.

Senator Rankin was Chairman of the caucus, B. F. Sherman Secretary. A caucus of the Assembly Republicans was held this evening in the Capitol. Every Republican was present. Wm. T. Price, of Jackson, was elected chairman, and C. E. Estabrook, of Manitowish, Secretary. The formal ballot for speaker resulted: Gilson, 43; Price, 13; Ostrander, 7. The vote was declared formal and made unanimous. E. D. Coe, of Walworth, for chief clerk, and D. E. Welsh, of Sauk, for sergeant, were nominated by acclamation.

JUDGE COX'S DECISIONS.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—Something was accomplished in the Guiteau trial to-day. Judge Cox delivered an exhaustive, able and voluminous decision on the legal questions involved, wherein everything in the text books, in the decisions and in the statutes bearing on the question of the defense of insanity was reviewed. He decided, basing his decision on the general principles of the common law, that the criminal court of the district had jurisdiction over the present case. He decided, basing his decision on the decisions of the English and best American courts, that the proper test of the sanity of any man was his ability to distinguish between right and wrong. He added certain qualifications in granting substantially the prayers of the prosecution, deemed favorable to the defense.

One was that the ability of the accused to distinguish must be as to the right or wrong involved in the act for the commission of which he was indicted. Another, that if, on the whole body of facts presented (not simply on those in regard to the insanity of the accused), the jury should have a well founded, reasonable doubt of the prisoner's guilt they must acquit.

This decision, which occupied in its delivery one hour and a half, was preceded by an eloquent argument by Judge Porter on the question of malice, under whose caustic sentences Guiteau and Guiteau's family writhed in intense excitement. At one time Mrs. Scoville was with difficulty restrained from throwing some portable object at "Mr. Big-mouth Porter," and at every sentence throughout the case the argument Guiteau had something (generally something abusive and blasphemous) to say. The argument of Judge Porter was characterized by his usual depth of thought, breadth, learning, and grace of style. He reviewed the main facts in the sad story of the assassination in a very telling manner, and his rebukes of Scoville and Guiteau were simply withering.

SUPREME COURT.

MADISON, January 10.—In the supreme court to-day a motion was made by Mr. H. M. Finch for an order to show cause why John J. Orton, a prominent attorney of Milwaukee, should not be disbarred from practice in the supreme court, in addition to having been disbarred some time ago by the judge of the Milwaukee circuit for unprofessional conduct. An affidavit giving reasons for the motions was filed, but your correspondent was not permitted to examine it. Attorney Finch said it contained several matters not proper to be published.

The Supreme Court, in an opinion written by Justice Cassaday, decided the case of the State ex rel Priest vs. the University regents to-day. It was held that the regents have power to impose a tax upon students for incidentals, although the revised statutes provide that tuition in the University shall be free to residents of Wisconsin.

MANAGER VAN HORNE.

MILWAUKEE, Jan. 10.—It is said in railway circles that W. C. Van Horne does not fancy his new position of General Manager of the Canada Pacific railway, and that the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul company are holding his former position open for him.

Dr. Pierce's "Pleasant Purgative Pellets" are sugar coated and enclosed in glass bottles, their virtues being thereby preserved unimpaired for any length of time, in any climate, that they are always fresh and reliable. No cheap wooden or pasteboard boxes. By druggists.

MILTON JUNCTION.

—Mr. Riley Potter and wife, of Farina, Illinois, are guests of Mr. G. S. Larkin, for a few weeks.

—Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Greenman and their daughter, Elroy, were all under the doctor's care last week. Mrs. G. had membranous croup, and the others had fever, but all are convalescing and about again.

—Agent Holmes visited Milwaukee on Wednesday last, on matters concerning the shipping interests of his station.

—Clark Brothers shipped some very fine car loads of hogs last week, and a couple more car loads on Monday of this week.

—Postmaster Ganong, of Fort Atkinson, paid us a pleasant visit on Monday, while waiting for the Madison train.

—Mrs. Harriet Edwards left last week for Farina, Illinois, where she will spend the winter with her daughter, Mrs. Rich.

—The first car load of lumber for a new tobacco warehouse at this station, is, at present writing, reported to be standing on the side track of the Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway. We trust the report is true, and that it is only the advance guard of many more to follow. The warehouse fever is raging quite hard here now, but as yet this is the first tangible outcome of the excitement.

—Quite a number of ladies secured steady employment so far this season, as tobacco sorters, at one dollar per day. The public installation of officers by the Odd Fellows, at Morgan's hall, on Thursday evening last, was well attended by our citizens. The hall was comfortably seated. After the installation exercises nearly the entire audience as invited guests of the different members, repaired to grange hall, in the same building, and partook of one of those elegant suppers for which the Hobecons of the order are becoming noted. Two long tables were filled four times before the numerous guests were all served.

—Mr. Frank Holmes and wife, of Fayette, Iowa, formerly a resident here, arrived last week, and will spend a few weeks with relatives and friends in this locality.

—Mrs. George Button and Miss Maggie Owen are spending a few weeks at Randolph, Wis., visiting at the home of their parents.

—Mr. S. C. Carr went to Milwaukee on Monday to remain a couple of weeks on business relating to the State Grange.

—Mr. A. W. Maxon has entered the employ of Walter A. Wood and will sell his combined reaper and mower the coming season.

—Mr. Walter J. Collins, of Emmetsburg, Iowa, is home on a visit. He is stopping with his sister, Mrs. R. J. Greenman.

—The noon passenger train on the N. W. road going south on Tuesday ran into the hind end of a wagon at the Holmes crossing, north of this village making it into kindling wood in a short time. Mr. Carl Will, the owner, who is a German living about a mile from the crossing, was driving his team hitched to a lumber wagon, across the track at the time, the hind wheel however being directly in the path of the flying train he was thrown some distance striking upon his head bruising him quite badly, yet inflicting no serious injury. The team with a portion of the tongue of the wagon left for home. The train backed up and took Mr. Will on board and brought him to the junction, where his injuries were properly attended to, and it is thought nothing serious will result from it.

The True Story of the Cuckoo.

Our correspondent whose interesting communication on cuckoo lore appeared last week is at fault in stating that the young cuckoo turns out its fellow-nestlings from a love of supremacy, and that the young birds expelled are smaller than itself. Being usually hatched before the cuckoo, they are generally of equal size, and rather larger than the intruder; and their expulsion is necessary for his due nourishment by the miniature foster parents. In fact, when, as sometimes happens, two cuckoos are hatched in one nest, they endeavor each to expel the other; and in one case observed by Herr Adolph Muller, and described in Der Zoologische Garten for October, 1868, the smaller succeeded in expelling the larger. But we will let Mrs. Blackburn relate her own account of what she saw.

The nest (which we watched last June, after finding the cuckoo's egg in it) was that of the common meadow-pipit (titlark, moss-cuckoo), and had two pipit's eggs beside that of the cuckoo. It was below a heather-bush, on the declivity of a low, abrupt bank on a highland hill-side in Midloth.

At one visit the pipits were found to be hatched, but not the cuckoo. At the next visit, which was after an interval of forty-eight hours, we found the young cuckoo alone in the nest, and both the young pipits lying down the bank, about ten inches from the margin of the nest, but quite lively after being warmed in the hand. They were replaced in the nest beside the cuckoo, which struggled about till it got its back under one of them, when it climbed backward directly up the open side of the nest, and pitched the pipit from its back on to the edge. It then stood quite upright on its legs, which were stretched wide apart, with the claws firmly fixed half way down the inside of the nest, among the interlacing fibers of which the nest was woven; and, stretching its wings apart and backward, it elbowed the pipit fairly over the margin so far that its struggles took it down the bank instead of back into the nest.

After this the cuckoo stood a minute or two, feeling back with its wings, as if to make sure that the pipit was fairly overboard, and then subsided into the bottom of the nest.

As it was getting late, and the cuckoo did not immediately set to work on the other nestling, I replaced the ejected one, and went home. On returning next day, both nestlings were found dead and cold, out of the nest. I replaced one of them, but the cuckoo made no effort to get under and eject it, but settled itself contentedly on the top of it. All this I find accords accurately with Jenner's description of what he saw. But what struck me most was this; the cuckoo was perfectly naked, without a vestige of a feather, or even a hint of future feathers; its eyes were not yet opened, and its neck seemed too weak to support the weight of its head.

The pipits had well-developed quills on the wings and back, and had bright eyes, partially open; yet they seemed quite helpless under the manipulations of the cuckoo, which looked a much less developed creature. The cuckoo's legs, however, seemed very muscular, and it appeared to feel about with its wings, which were absolutely featherless, as with hands, the "spurious wing" (unusually large in proportion) looking like a spread-out thumb. The most singular thing of all was the direct purpose with which the blind little monster made for the open side of the nest, the only part where it could throw its burden down the bank. I think all the spectators felt the sort of horror and awe at the apparent inadequacy of the creature's intelligence to its acts that one might have felt at seeing a toothless hag raise a ghost by an incantation. It was horribly ungraceful and "grew-some."

Little Gracie had been told that it was impolite to take the last biscuit on the table. The other morning, at breakfast, she was observed to gaze long and earnestly at the solitary biscuit on the bread-plate. The temptation at last proved too great. Reaching for the coveted morsel, she exclaimed: "Oh mamma, I've almost 'nursed' it! I don't want to be polite to-day, I'll wait till some day when I ain't too hungry!"
